Statement from the Prime Minister of Canada

It is with great pleasure that I welcome you to the Gender and Sexual Alliance (GSA) Leadership Forum.

The journey towards equality has not been easy, and generations of Canadians have lived and worked under intense discrimination to ensure that life could get better for those who came after. We must honour them by redoubling our commitment to fight bigotry and discrimination of any form. Together, we fight for a better future.

Let us also remember that our youth are not just the leaders of tomorrow, they are the leaders of today. It is the leadership of our young people that serves as our guiding light towards a prosperous and peaceful future for all.

Thank you to the organizers of this year's forum, and to everyone in attendance here to attend various workshops, listen to keynote speakers and to participate in important training exercises and discussions.

Please accept my warmest welcome and best wishes for a memorable forum!
