

Non-Binary Transgender Awareness

Gender non-binary may mean different things to different people, though at its core is used to describe someone whose gender identity is not exclusively male or female. It may be a mixture of the two, neither, or all of the above!

The identifier been recorded as far back as 400 B.C. to 200 A.D., when Hijras — people in India who identified as beyond male or female — were referenced in ancient Hindu texts.

Non-binary is just as valid as any other gender identity!

source: <https://www.healthline.com/health/transgender/nonbinary>

March 31

Transgender Day of Visibility